

IRIS Exchequer delivers over 15 years of simple and efficient financial management to New Forest Precision

New Forest Precision was established in 1977. Today it is a medium-sized, leading edge precision sheet metal engineering company.

It is engaged in the manufacture of components, sub-assemblies and complete enclosures in mild steel, stainless steel, aluminium and other special alloys.

In 1992, New Forest Precision adopted IRIS Exchequer to handle its financial management, as a replacement for a manual system that entailed much handwritten data entry and didn't easily generate reports.

Linda Hunter, Office Manager comments, "We wanted to adopt a solution that would increase efficiency and enable us to produce reports more easily. IRIS Exchequer was a competitively priced and easy to use package, that we felt would simplify our accounts procedures no end."

On a daily basis New Forest Precision use IRIS Exchequer to enter sales and purchase ledger data. It is also used to generate sales statements, monthly reports, trial balances, profit and loss figures and more on a monthly basis - making it an integral part of the business workflow, especially when it comes to auditing.

"I find IRIS Exchequer particularly useful when generating reports for the Managing Director and producing our yearly audit," continues Linda. "The system provides clear and concise documentation for end of month reports, all available at the touch of a button."

In addition to its 3-user standard version of IRIS Exchequer, New Forest Precision makes use of additional modules including Sales & Purchase Order Processing. This gives them total flexibility when fulfilling customers' requirements, whilst providing an unparalleled level of traceability and integration with other modules.

Whether you require a simple process involving order taking, picking, delivering and invoicing, or a more complex procedure involving multiple locations, routing, packaging, labelling, serial number allocations and back-to-back ordering; IRIS Exchequer has the built-in functionality to match your needs and provide you with maximum productivity.

In conclusion Linda comments, "It is part of modern life to use computers and you therefore need a system that is simple to run within your line of business. IRIS Exchequer has delivered that simplicity for the last 15 years and we are certainly a lot more efficient as a result."
